Cushioning

Amcon's origins are in the cushioning market. Polyurethane foam is a critical component of bedding and mattresses, office and residential furniture, restaurant booths and chairs, and residential furnishing.

Amcon stocks a wide variety of high-resiliency, premium quality foams, antimicrobial foam, with many different densities and firmnesses. With our diversified fabricating capabilities, we can manufacture virtually any shape or size you desire. We can also laminate different densities of foam together where beneficial. We will also assist you with design and material selection, assuring you choose the best material for your application.
